4/28 - Huy calls Dad, tells Dad that Michelle has talked to us (children) about serious concerns about Dad's well-being. She reports that Dad is having problems both taking care of himself and the house. Furthermore, she has applied for a public guardian. This means that the County eventually will come up with a plan for Dad that will use his assets to provide for 24-hour care for him. Ultimately this means a loss of financial and individual freedom for Dad, and probably separation from Annalise.

The alternative is for Dad to let the Living Will take effect, by voluntarily ceding POA to Hanh. This is a better alternative that will keep Dad's freedoms. The family will better protect Dad's best interests than a public agency.

We (the children) would like to help Dad, but we can do so only after the POA goes into effect. Our plan consist of:

1. Cleaning Chipper house, fixing it, and selling it.
2. Moving Dad to a new living situation in the Bay Area, where we can oversee both health and living situation.

Comment: Dad will probably say no at first. But when public guardian and doctors actually contact him, he will then think about this.

Early May – We meet with Dad and the lawyer to modify the Living Will.
