Here is Chu Y's suggestion. Basically, transfer out dad's assets, and have him live with somebody for 5 years, then followed by his getting free government aid.

I'm pretty sure you agree that this is totally unworkable for dad.

Internet is a good resource on how to avoid medical estates recovery or Medicaid look back period, etc. Read them to have a basic understanding about estate reservation before you talk to an elderly lawyer or planner. Normally, it is free consultation in the first 30 minutes.
