Dad says that when he went into Kaiser to have doctor's permission to renew his handicap placard (expired 6/30/2023), they incidentally encouraged him to COVID vaccinate. His response, according to him, was overly passive and he went along with it. That was very recent, right around the time the placard expired.

Looking now in Kaiser records, I don't see a record of that vaccination.

I advised the nurse not to give him another vaccination before discharge, both because he already had a recent one, and because he expressly does not want anymore of these. You might want to talk to Dad about his wishes, when you have the opportunity, and account for them when you assist him with his decisions. These vaccines have been known to cause autoimmunity.
