Yes, that's at least the presumption. John told me only about a $200 ambulance fee for the transfer. If the SNF were to cost $10K, he would have told me. I think we will have all the details once a discharge is ready.

Thanks for the update. Will Kaiser cover the cost of rehab and his being at this place?

They will be transferring him by ambulance to a Skilled Nursing Facility, probably in Santa Ana. It could be as early as today. He will stay there 1-3 weeks. They noted that the plan for the longer term is to transfer him to Assisted Living in San Jose.
