Amber just called me about the same query of the attached PDF. She was very friendly and cheerful (different from the formal letter's tone).

- * She said Geico was contacted by the other side's lawyer.
- * The lawyer disclosed that the client is going to a chiropractor for injuries.
- * The lawyer wants to know the Geico limits for compensation. That is $50K.
- * That information ($50K) has not yet been disclosed to the lawyer. They need your permission first before they can do so.
- * The extent of injuries and damage award is not known until the therapy sessions have finished. But she told me (obviously informally) that $50K should cover that kind of therapy.
- * Referring to the letter, it looks like I am the one who should sign the letter. So, I need to know how you want to proceed.

In my limited experience, the other side would like to know the limit so they can ask for that amount and no more. You should research to make your own decision.

Mark
